"Birth of Nation" Has Premiere Here

IN SHIP BILL AGAIN Members of Supreme Court, Congress, and Diplomatic Corps Guests of Press Club.

Members of the Supreme Court, the Senate, the House, and the Diplomatic Corps were present last night at the presentation, under the auspices of the National Press Club, of the gigantic motion drama, "The Birth of the Nation," based on Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman." Owing to the limitations of the Press Club quarters, the "picture" was given its first public showing in the big ball room of the Raleigh Hotel. The Senate, having consumed practibill, tackled the measure again today, in the big ball room of the Raleigh.
The amount of debate which developed, Hotel. The amount of debate which developed

The amount of debate which developed over the legislative bill makes it clear the appropriation measures will not be passed by February 27, when the ship purchase bill is supposed to be returned from conference.

If the appropriation bills are to be passed, a good deal of time will have to be taken up with them between February 27 and March 4. This makes it that no review of the drama be given ary 27 and March 4. This makes it that no review of the drama be given more certain that the ship purchase makes it will be shown to the measure cappet be largered through in measure cannot be jammed through in general public for the first time. # THE PATRIOT Temple Talks, Alpha Series

The Center of Patriotism is the Individual, for a nation is neither better nor worse than its citizens. The wealth of America is not vested in railroads, large crops, big cities or great canals, but in the production of men of clear mind and clean life. "It is the soul, and not the things" that make people great. Switzerland is a small rugged country, built for the most part of rock and ice and unproductive hills. But the Swiss are a remarkable people, because they plan the largest possible degree of progress and contentment for the remotest and humblest homes of their semi verticle land. Real patriotism is the flower of contentment, confidence and intelligence.

Progress and the Church Are Synonyms. No well informed man doubts the vast influence of the Church in creating a higher social order. Every institution that holds the people in need and ignorance is the natural enemy of the Church. Under her domain a liberal education prevails; home breaking habits are destroyed; thrift reigns where indolence was king. No man with a spark of patriotism within his breast can escape the debt of gratitude he owes the Church for the inspiration it creates among all classes. It is comparatively easy for secular bodies to locate and define social ills, but thus far only the Church has both diagnosed and effectively prescribed a remedy. It asks and deserves the cooperation of well meaning men.

We Are Creating a New Kind of Patriotism. It differs from the old, which inspired hatred for all other countries but one's own. Ours is the patriotism of peace, not war, of life, not death, of service, not destruction. With spread eagle flourish the shallow orator exclaimed: "My country, may she always be right, but my country, right or wrong." The new patriotism disclaims the last clause, and writes in its place, "My country, righted whenever wrong.'

The Goal of Universal Peace is Remote, but the Church has turned her steps in that direction, and it will never be turned aside until it produces a new world race who live rather than die for their country. This is not the first Samsonian task the Church has undertaken, and it will assuredly see it through.

"Let Them Shoot, it Makes Business Better," is a recent expression of a nameless journalist who evinces precious little humanity in his cold steel logic. That expression might do for the birds of prey that perch in the leafless trees of the deserted battlefields, but it certainly cannot express the growing fraternal spirit of humanity. Lend a hand, not a sword thrust. Riches stained with a brother's blood is not the coin of the Sanctuary. Wealth is accidental; humanity is essential.

Genuine Patriotism is Missionary in Spirit. State creeds of former years sound with barbaric jangle. They were creeds of enthroned selfishness. The individual who stole from his neighbor was punished, but the state robbed its weaker neighbor with both hands and escaped with impunity under the guise of war. Historians and poets have turned tine phrases in praise of peoples who shed the most blood, destroyed most. subdued most. All this is passing away like the mists that fly from the Italian lakes at sunrise. It is passing because the Church is showing a better way to live and let live.

Whoever Truly Loves His Country is a Child of the Church. He may call himself a prodigal from home, but his best thoughts of home and native land are but the flowering of Christian ideals which the Church has been silently and patiently scattering throughout the years. The man who loves his country, ought to remember the God and His Church who have made our land worth loving.
